THE BEST FAMILY MEDICINE
She Has Ever Known. Words of Praise from a New York Lady for AYER'S PILLS

"I would like to add my testimony to that of others who have used Ayer's Pills, and to say that I have taken them for many years, and always derived the best results from their use. For stomach and liver troubles, and for the cure of headache caused by these derangements, Ayer's Pills cannot be equaled.

When my friends ask me what is the best remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver, or bowels, my invariable answer is, Ayer's Pills. Taken in season, they will break up a cold, prevent la grippe, check fever, and regulate the digestive organs. They are easy to take, and are, indeed, the best all-round family medicine I have ever known."—Mrs. MAY JOHNSON, 368 Rider Avenue New York City.

DINING WITH THE PRINCE.

The Hospitality of Albert Edward at Marlborough House.

The Prince of Wales gives in the course of the season certain special dinners at Marlborough House, which in many essential respects differ from those which he attends at other people's houses. The guests do not number more than 45 people, including the ladies and gentlemen in attendance upon the prince and princess. When members of the royal family arrive at Marlborough House, at the outer gate, the fact is at once signaled from the lodge, so that the Prince and Princess of Wales are never taken by surprise, but are in readiness to receive them.

The dining room in which the banquet is served is a magnificently decorated apartment, with a ceiling of white and gold. On the wall on the left hand side is a great square of red plush to set off the presentations of plate which have been made to their royal highnesses during the recent years. The Prince of Wales, as a host, sits not at the end, but in the middle seat, at the side of a large and long table. Table decorations are of a massive, ornate and rather heavy character. A very high centerpiece is filled with flowers, and more blossoms are placed in tall vases resembling specimen glasses.

Probably Marlborough House is the only place in London in which the knives and forks are laid so curiously. To each guest two forks and no more are provided, and these are placed prongs downward, reversing the usual method. In addition there is one large tablespoon and one large knife. In no circumstance are two knives permitted upon the table simultaneously, and for this rule a very strange reason is assigned. His royal highness is very superstitious, and on no account will he incur the risk of having knives crossed inadvertently. The wineglasses are placed, by the bye, in a line as straight as a company of soldiers, and the services are simply folded in two. Small water bottles are used, but apparently finger bowls are tabooed in Marlborough House.

Dinner begins at 8:45 p. m. and lasts for one hour and ten minutes. Rapid service is insisted upon. Yet four or five waiters only are allowed to enter the dining room, which is, however, some distance from the kitchen. Celerity and dispatch are obtained by the employment of a small army of assistants stationed behind the scenes.

For dessert royal blue sevres is used, and when the time has come for coffee and cigars the custom is once during the year, and only once—the night of the Derby dinner—to hand to each guest a silver lighter of unique design. No two lamps are alike, as they have at various times been presented by different donors to the Prince of Wales, and each one has its history.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Citric Acid.

Enormous quantities of citric acid are used in calico printing, in pharmacy and in the preparation of artificial lemonade. About 1¼ ounces (570 grains) of pure citric acid dissolved in a pint of water gives a solution which has the average acidity of good lemon juice. When diluted with several times its bulk of water, sweetened with sugar and scented with a single drop of essence of lemon, an artificial lemonade is cheaply produced, which is much used as a cooling drink in fever hospitals.

It has also been used in the navy as a substitute for fresh lemon juice in the treatment or prevention of scurvy, but has been found much less efficient. In fact, this artificial lemonade is by no means equal to that made from pure lemon juice, whether used at table or for invalids. In rheumatism or rheumatic gout the fresh juice of the lemon is preferred on account of the bicitrate of potash which it contains. Pure lemon juice is also a valuable remedy in sore throat and diphtheria. Cases have been recorded in which children have apparently been cured of this terrible disease by constantly sucking oranges or lemons.

Pure citric acid possesses, like some other acids, the power of destroying the bad effects of polluted water used for drinking, but it is perhaps best to boil the water before adding a little citric acid to it.—Chambers' Journal.

He Knew Enough.

The esteem in which the sailor's calling is held in Massachusetts coast towns is indicated by a true story that comes from Gay Head, a primitive community on the island of Martha's Vineyard.

A teacher was wanted at the village, and a sailor, with Indian blood in his veins, applied to the town committee for the position. He had to pass an examination by the committee and trembled at the ordeal, being sadly unlearned in booklore.

The chairman began the examination.

"Mr. ——, what is the shape of the earth?"

"It is round, sir," the candidate answered.

"How do you know?"

"Because I have sailed around it three times."

"That will do, sir."

He received his "certificate" as a teacher without another question being asked.—Youth's Companion.

All the World's a Stage.

The idea embalmed in this line appears to have been widely used in Shakespeare's time, not the least curious instance being its employment by Sir George Moore in the house of commons, Jan. 21, 1605 6, he describing the gunpowder plot as a "conspiracy the like whereof never came upon the stage of the world." Commons Journal, volume 1, page 257.—Notes and Queries.

Some folks would never have any gold if they had to dig for it and never any sunshine if they had to crawl out of the shade to find it.—Atlanta Constitution.

A man's—or woman's—height should be six times the length of the foot, but there are occasional exceptions.

Compressed Air.

According to a statement made at the Montreal meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by Superintendent Heggem of the engine works at Massillon, O., the advantages of compressed air have been very pronounced in the foundry operations of that establishment. The air is supplied by means of three compressors. A belt driven compressor, 13 by 10 inches in size, runs constantly and supplies most of the air that is used, and the working pressure is from 60 to 70 pounds; a 7½ inch by 7 inch steam driven duplex compressor is operated by a pressure valve, so that when the pressure of air falls below 60 pounds this compressor is put in motion to supply the deficiency—the air supply being thus maintained automatically. A smaller steam driven compressor is also kept as a reserve in case of accident to either of the other machines. The air is stored in three reservoirs of 250 cubic feet capacity each, and these reservoirs are placed in those parts of the works where the greatest volume of air is required, and, owing to the intermittent use of the air, the compressors are equal to furnishing a sufficient amount, and at a cost of something like $3 per day of ten hours.

Old English Coal Records.

There is a record, dated 852, of the receipt of 12 cartloads of fossil coal at the abbey of Peterborough, and this was assuredly not the first case of production and delivery.

The deeds of the bishopric of Durham contain records of grants of land to colliers as far back as 1180, in various parts of the county. In the year 1239 a charter was granted by Henry III to the freemen of Newcastle-on-Tyne to dig coal in the fields belonging to the castle, and it was in or about this year that coal was first sent to London. Very early in the fourteenth century evidence abounds of a large consumption of coal by smiths, brewers and others. Already the smoke nuisance appeared, and a commission of Edward I levied fines to prevent it.

Another charter, or license, was granted to the freemen of Newcastle in Edward III's time to work coal within the town walls, and in the year 1367 coal began to be worked at Winlaton, in the neighborhood where George Stephenson was to evolve the locomotive 400 years later, while himself a worker at the coal pits.—All the Year Round.

Does Your Mother Know You're Out?

This cant question was current a good many years ago—I should think about 25 or 30. Perhaps it had its popularity from some music hall song of the time. It appears in almost identical words in a comic poem published in The Mirror of April 28, 1838 (volume 31, No. 890, page 282), which is said to be an extract from Bentley's Miscellany. It is entitled "The Meeting, After the Manner of Ludwig Uhland."

Five stanzas describe very sentimentally how the poet lay beside a fountain dreaming of Elysian plains, of old castles, gigantic forests, troops of nymphs, etc., and how a "lovely May" advances toward him from the forest shade:

Straight I rose and ran to meet her,
Seized her hand; the heavenly blue
Of her bright eyes smiled brighter, sweeter
As she asked me, "Who are you?"

To this question came another—
What its aim I still must doubt—
And she asked me: "How's your mother?
Does she know that you are out?"

"No! my mother does not know it,
Beauteous, heaven descended Muse!"
"Then off get you, my handsome poet,
And say I sent you with the news."
—Notes and Queries.

Anecdotes of D'Arcy McGee.

Mr. McGee informed us that one day, when on a railway train at a station, a little boy with a telegram for him ran through the car shouting, "Is Darky McGee here?" Mr. McGee said that he beseechingly called out, "Soften the c, my boy." Mr. McGee, as we all know, was of a very dark, rich complexion. He also assured us that in an election contest between Mr. Dorion and himself they together visited a negro settlement near Montreal, the votes of which were an important quota in the election. He (McGee) said he maneuvered and got Dorion to first address them, which he did in a long, stirring appeal, and then he (McGee) arose, and, opening his mouth from ear to ear and glowering at the negro audience, shouted, "We are a downtrodden race," and then resumed his seat. "And," said Mr. McGee, "they voted for me to a man."—Canadian Magazine.

Castle Williams.

Perhaps the name of the fort on Governors island is more often spelled and pronounced incorrectly than correctly. It is Castle Williams, and not Castle William, although there is an impression that it took its name from King William III of England. In reality it dates no farther back than the early part of the present century.—New York Tribune.

If They Only Would!

The Remington horses and the Gibson girls are very persistent types, and both are a little overworked in current illustration. If the Gibson girl would gallop away on the Remington horse for a good long vacation, it would be restful to everybody concerned. They would be welcomed back afterward with renewed pleasure.—Boston Transcript.

Jupiter.

The Greeks believed that Jupiter made woman in order to punish Prometheus and his brother for presumption. They besought Jupiter that they might die when they found what was in store for them, but the ruler of heaven would not let them off so easily and compelled them to get married.

Heat and Cold.

The sensation of great cold and of great heat is the same, because the nerves can convey but one sensation, and heat is more dangerous, and therefore it is more necessary that the nerves should be able to give a warning of it.

LIGHTNING AND RUBBERS.

Wear Goloshes During a Thunderstorm if You Are Afraid.

The one thing which a woman most dreads—barring, of course, a mouse and being out of style—is a thunder shower. Many most estimable women, of character and force, who can lead great crusades and revolutionize society, go all to pieces at a clap of thunder, and a good many men, too, for that matter.

It is not agreeable to be struck by lightning. Nor is it at all necessary. There is a sure preventive—as sure as it is simple, inexpensive and always accessible—a pair of rubbers. If a woman will simply put on a pair of rubbers when the lightning begins to flash and the thunder to roar, and will stand on the floor so that she touches nothing else, she will be as safe as if she were sealed in a glass cage.

Rubber is a nonconductor of electricity, and if the lightning has to go through a sheet of rubber to get at you it will leave you alone and take something else. In other words, when you have on a pair of rubbers and are not in contact with anything, you are perfectly insulated.

This is not a theory merely. It is a fact proved by innumerable experiences. A pair of rubbers has saved many a life in a thunderstorm.

Last summer Horace W. Folger of Cambridgeport, Mass., was on a pilot-boat in Boston harbor, when a thunder shower came up. He was on deck wearing rubber boots, but steadying himself with one hand by a wire cable from the main topmast. Lightning struck the topmast, shivering it into splinters. Down the cable went the current. Folger was knocked unconscious. When he recovered, he was full of aches and pains, but he pulled through. If it had not been for the rubber boots, the current would have passed entirely through him. As it was the current could not get through his boots, so it passed down the cable.

It might be well to add that a pair of rubbers to be effective against lightning must be sound and whole. Do not put on an old pair with a crack in the toe because electricity will get out of a very small hole when it is cornered, and a pair of defective rubbers will do you no good.—New York Press.

THIS CHINAMAN KNEW ENGLISH.

A Genius For Expression Equal to His Scientific Equipment.

At the business ports of China it is customary for the Europeans to issue what is called an "express"—i. e., a special bill printed and delivered quickly by hand, announcing the arrival of any special goods, etc., as a means of advertisement. Our friend John Chinaman at Canton, not to be outdone in this style, issued the following epistle as an "express" last month, and which is highly amusing:

Sources of Color.

An interesting enumeration has been made by somebody and published in a technical journal of the sources of color. From this it appears that the cochineal insects furnish the gorgeous carmine, crimson, scarlet, carmine and purple lakes; the cuttlefish gives sepia—that is, the inky fluid which the fish discharges in order to render the water opaque when attacked; the Indian yellow comes from the camel; ivory chips produce the ivory black and boneblack; the exquisite prussian blue comes from fusing horse hoofs and other refuse animal matter with impure potassium carbonate; various lakes are derived from roots, barks and gums; blue black comes from the charcoal of the vine stock; turkey red is made from the madder plant, which grows in Hindustan; the yellow sap of a Siam tree produces gamboge; raw sienna is the natural earth from the neighborhood of Siena, Italy; raw umber is an earth found near Umbria and burned; india ink is made from burned camphor; mastic is made from the gum of the mastic tree, which grows in the Grecian archipelago; bister is the soot of wood ashes; very little real ultramarine, obtained from the precious lapis lazuli, is found in the market; the Chinese white is zinc, scarlet is iodide of mercury, and vermilion is from the quicksilver ore cinnabar.

The Mule and the Peasant.

One day a mule who was drawing a cart along a highway suddenly came to a stop and began lamenting his hard fate.

"How, now, you ingrate!" shouted the peasant in reply. "Are you not well fed and lodged, and do I ever ask you to work on the Sabbath day?"

"But behold the muddy highway!" replied the mule. "My strength is taxed to the utmost to pull my load."

"Idiot of a mule, it is owing to the mud that I have loaded the cart with only 600 pounds! If there was no mud, I'd insist that you draw 1,000!"

Moral.—The man who complains of a pimple may have escaped a boil.—Detroit Free Press.

That Particular Mule.

"What dat mule good foh?"

"He ain't good foh much," was the reluctant reply.

"Kin he pull er kyaht?"

"Not fur."

"Whut's he good foh?"

"Well, I guess he ain' good foh much 'cep' tradin. I'ze jes' keepin 'im foh 'er swappin mule."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Kendal and Servants.

The popular English actress, Mrs. Kendal, is a stickler for outward badges of domestic service. She openly avows her opinion that American servants dress too well, and says: "No girl in my house can wear a fringe. I tell her plainly she must part her hair and comb it neatly back beneath a cap, and she must wear an apron and no jewelry, but a ribbon around her neck. Only a lady's maid may wear a brooch and go without the cap, but she must wear an apron. They must wear their caps at the theater too. Why, if they didn't I would wear one myself! There must be a distinction made somehow."

Mrs. Kendal probably does not remember that 100 or so years ago the social line of demarcation was drawn at actors and actresses, Dr. Johnson designating them as "amusing vagabonds." Nor does she evidently take into account that in this country those employed in domestic service are such an important and independent class that an employer has commonly too great fears of her cook being tempted away from her by a plain gold ring to stand at a brooch or a string of beads.—Exchange.

Sale Made.

A lady who had recently moved to a new neighborhood was one morning called to the door by the violent ringing of the bell. On the piazza stood a dapper little man who immediately commenced talking at a mile a minute pace: "Mornin, ma'am. Dunno whether you know me or not. Most of the people round here do. I'm the man that has fits."

The astonished lady thought that some people claim distinction on very strange, not to say unfit, grounds.

"Yes'm, have fits any time, any place," he went on. "Liable to drop right down in one anywhere. Spect to get a pension. Sellin these wire hooks for birdcages. Every one buys some. Give me anything they likes—5 cents or 25 cents. Everybody helps me, cos they know I have fits—liable to drop right down in one anywhere." The dazed listener hastily gave him what change she had and closed the door, thanking her lucky stars that he didn't feel called upon "to drop down in one" right there.—Boston Transcript.

Curious, but True.

Although difficult to believe, it is nevertheless true that the death of two half sisters, the daughters of the same father, occurred 170 years apart. The grandfather of the British minister, Charles James Fox, Sir Stephen Fox, married in 1654, and had a daughter born to him in 1655, who died in the course of the same year. He had several other children, who grew up and married, but all of them died before the father, and without issue. Sir Stephen, not wishing his large fortune to fall into the hands of distant relatives, married again at a very advanced age, and his youngest daughter was born in 1727. She reached the age of 98 years, and died in 1825, that is 170 years after the death of her oldest sister. She saw Queen Victoria when the latter was a child, while her half sister was carried in the arms of Oliver Cromwell.

Sacred Keys.

Every person's feelings have a front door and a side door by which they may be entered. The front door is on the street. Some keep it always open, some keep it latched, some locked, some bolted with a chain that will let you peep in, but not get in, and some nail it up, so that nothing can pass its threshold. This front door leads into a passage which opens into an anteroom, and this into the interior apartments. The side door opens at once into the secret chamber. There is almost always one key to the side door. This is carried for years hidden in a mother's bosom. Fathers, brothers, sisters and friends often, but by no means so universally, have duplicates of it. The wedding ring conveys a right to one. Alas, if none is given with it! Be very careful to whom you trust one of these keys of the side door.—O. W. Holmes.

Bible Arithmetic.

Ezekiel's reed was nearly 11 feet; a cubit was nearly 22 inches; a hand's breadth is equal to 3 5-8 inches; a finger's breadth is equal to a little less than 1 inch; a shekel of silver was about 2s. 8d.; a shekel of gold was £2; a talent of silver was £400; a talent of gold was nearly £6,000; a piece of silver, or a penny, was 8½d.; a farthing was equal to ½d.; a mite was less than a farthing; a gerah was 1½d.; an ephah, or bath, contained 4 gallons and 5 pints; a hin was 3 quarts and 3 pints; an omer was 6 pints; a cab was 5 pints.—London Globe.

Without Discrimination.

"I very much dislike to see an old man smoking a cigarette," said Miss du Kane to young Mr. Gaswell.

"Why do you dislike to see an old man smoking one more than a young man?" asked Mr. Gaswell, as he complacently puffed at a particularly odorous specimen.

"I don't."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Hints to Advertisers.

Newspaper space may be compared to a garden; it is a success or a failure, just as it is cultivated.

The first requisite toward convincing the public that your goods are superior to others is to believe it yourself.

The principles of economy are not best followed by stopping your advertising, but by advertising more judiciously.

When the days are stormy and the people stay at home, your advertisement in the paper medium is right there with them.

A gold mine ceases to pay the instant you cease to work it. No one has ascertained when an ad. ceases to pay dividends.

Advertising has long been considered the business magnet to draw trade. But it seems not always to be understood that it is like the electro-magnet: it draws proportionately as the current is strong and continuous.—N. Y. Printers' Ink.

Increases the discomfort of the voyager. But even when the weather is not tempestuous he is liable to sea sickness. They who traverse the "gigantic wetness" should be provided with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which quiets disordered stomachs with gratifying speed and certainty. To the hurtful influence of a tropic, malarious or so rigorous or damp climate, as well as to the baneful effects of unwholesome diet and bad water, it is a reliable antidote. Commercial travelers by sea or land, marines, miners, western pioneers, and all who have to encounter vicissitudes of climate and temperature, concur in pronouncing it the best safeguard. It prevents rheumatism and pulmonary attacks in consequence of damp and cold, and it is an efficient defense against all forms of malaria. It can be depended upon in dyspepsia, liver and kidney trouble.

HEINOUS OFFENSE.

A Tramp Attempts to Assault a Little Girl.

On Wednesday morning last while the little nine-year-old daughter of a prominent resident of Embarcadero was on her way to school she was seized by a tramp, who dragged her a short distance and attempted a criminal assault on the child. The little one's screams attracted the attention of parties in the vicinity, who came to the child's rescue in time to prevent the fiend from accomplishing his purpose. He released his would-be-victim and took to flight.

Deputy Sheriff Charley Ohm was notified and made strenuous efforts to effect the capture of the wretch, but he managed to make his escape. Had he been caught and his identity established, without a doubt he would have been lynched by the people and the county saved the expense of a trial. At present the fiend is still at large.

Death of General Whallen.

General Murray Whallen, a pioneer of this county, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Judge Brown of Santa Rosa, last Monday morning. The deceased came to California in 1858, and a couple of years later located in this county, and in 1864 was elected to the Legislature and later on held the office of County Recorder. For a number of years he resided in Sonoma and Petaluma. He removed to Santa Rosa about two years ago, where he has been engaged in practicing law. General Whallen was a native of New York and aged 79 years. The deceased had many friends in Sonoma Valley, who will be pained to hear of his death

Wine Making.

Wine making in Sonoma Valley is now well under headway. The weather the past two weeks has been very favorable for the grapes. which will contain a greater per cent of sugar than has been known for a number of years. The quality of the vintage for 1895 will surpass that of former years, but the quantity will fall far below the average. In short there will not be half as much wine made in this valley this season as was made three years ago. Grapes are still holding their own at from $10 to $16, according to quality.

Sonoma High School.

The Sonoma Valley High School Board of Trustees will meet to-day at 2:30 P. M., at the school house, in regular quarterly session. Among other important matters to come up for discussion will be the question of providing suitable quarters for the school for the next term. Mr. Frank A. Riser, who wanted Mr. Dowdall's seat in the Board, has very gracefully abandoned all ideas of a contest.

Bicycle Race To-Morrow.

The five-mile bicycle race which will be held over the Sonoma track to-morrow afternoon between Frank Burris and Eugene Donaldson promises to be an exciting one. Both wheelmen have their friends and admirers and they will be spurred on to ride their level best. The race will be held under the auspices of the Sonoma Bicycle Club.

The contract for constructing plank curbings on certain streets, within the city's limits, was awarded to Louis Breitenbach at 8½ cents per lineal foot, his being the lowest bid. The other bids were as follows; A. Pinella, 10c; J. B. Small, 9½c; A. W. Bulotte, 9½c;

John Revie was appointed sexton of Mountain Cemetery.

On motion of Trustee Bulotti, which received a second from Trustee Hartin, Clerk Breitenbach was notified to advertise for sealed proposals to build a new bridge on Napa street, near the residence of V. Bulotti.

The sum of $50 was ordered to be expended for graveling certain streets.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid: J. E. Robin, salary, $15; C. Haderman, cleaning fire apparatus, $2.50; Wm. Green, lumber, 64c; L. Breitenbach, labor, 50c; J. H. Albertson, repairs, 50c.

The matter of fixing up a room in the Pavilion for Recorder Cheney was laid over. The Board then adjourned.

To Construct a Wing Dam.

Osborne, advertises in another column for sealed proposals for constructing a wing dam and for certain excavations to protect the Home property from the encroachments of the waters of Sonoma creek. Bids must be sent in to Dr. Osborne on or before next Friday at 12 o'clock, noon. The work must be done according to plans and specifications which are on file at President Overton's office in Santa Rosa and in the office of Secretary Osborne at the Home.

Dry North Winds.

The weather the past week has been anything but agreeable. Up to yesterday morning hot dry north winds have prevailed throughout the day and night. On Thursday night it blew a perfect hurricane, and the blow did not subside until 9 o'clock the next morning.

A most offensive odor arises from burning milk when it is accidentally spilled on the hot range, and one that is likely to permeate the whole house. The coin collection, which is in charge of the librarian at the University of California, has received little attention heretofore. It is a rare collection of at least 2500 coins and medals. It is now proposed to give some attention to the collection, which has been almost impossible on account of the lack of space. A valuable addition has just been made in the shape of a couple of lead petties, plated with silver, and used as currency in India before 800 A. D. They are very rare and were presented by Mr. Rounsevelle Wildman of San Francisco, formerly of Singapore. One of the new special Anglo-Chinese silver dollars, the first to reach California, has also just been received.

Donald, the little four-year-old son of B. F. Campbell, had his left arm badly fractured and dislocated at the elbow on last Saturday. It seems that the child was in the habit of riding a horse to water and it was while on the horse's back that he lost his hold and fell to the ground. His father promptly picked the little fellow up and noticed his arm hung useless and limp. Mr. Campbell immediately drove to town and had his little son's injuries attended to by Dr. Walliser. Donald now seems all right and is as lively as a cricket.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, OCT. 5, 1895.

ONE WAY TO LIVE CHEAPLY.

A Scheme That Was Developed by Gallant Colonel Wilk.

Joseph Tanski, the Polish refugee, narrates many stories of the shifts to which he and his fellow exiles were compelled to resort in order to keep soul and body together. None of these is more curious and interesting than one relating to his friend, Colonel Wilk, who had been decorated by the emperor of the French for gallant service in the French army, but who afterward found himself obliged to live upon 60 francs a month.

It was pretty tight work, and so Colonel Wilk had to confess, but one day he met with a strange bit of good fortune.

He had been out for a walk and was on his way home when a big Newfoundland dog came running down the street, pursued by a gang of boys and men, all armed with sticks. The dog, panting and terrified, ran straight toward Colonel Wilk and took refuge between his feet. The crowd drew near with loud and excited shouts.

"It is a mad dog! Kill him!"

A policeman, more courageous than the mob, stepped forward.

"Halt!" shouted the knight of the Legion of Honor. "The dog belongs to me. It is not mad."

His resolute air and perhaps the red ribbon in his buttonhole made an impression upon the policeman.

"Very well," he said, "since the dog is yours, lead him away."

So said, so done. Colonel Wilk took the dog home, washed and combed it, and then went with it to the butcher's to buy it some scraps of meat. For 25 centimes the butcher gave him a fine lot, and on his way home Wilk bought a few vegetables.

All these bits—bits of meat, bones and vegetables—he put into a pot together with a suitable quantity of water, and out of the pot both he and the dog made a sumptuous dinner.

The problem of living was solved. Day after day, as often as his purse ran low, which was pretty often, he bought bits of meat "for his dog." Nobody was the wiser, and the Polish exile and his dog lived upon 35 centimes a day, and the knight of the Legion of Honor could once more receive his friends like a man of the world.

Mezzofanti's Memory.

Cardinal Mezzofanti had a memory little short of miraculous. Dr. Russell, his biographer, says that the cardinal spoke with the greatest ease 30 languages; that he spoke fairly well 9; that he used occasionally, but not with any fluency, 11 more; that he spoke imperfectly 8, and that he could read 11 more. Taking, in addition, the number of dialects he used, some so diverse from the mother tongue as to constitute a different language, Dr. Russell says that the cardinal was master of no less than 111 different languages and dialects. His German was so excellent that he was taken for a native of Germany, while his French and English were equally pure. Dr. Tholuck heard him converse in German, Arabic, Spanish, Flemish, English, Latin, Greek, Swedish and Portuguese at one of the pope's receptions, and afterward Mezzofanti gave him an original poem in Persian and left him to take a lesson in Cornish. He knew several of the American Indian languages and nearly all the dialects of India.

An instance of the great dissolving powers of sulphuric acid is furnished by an accident which recently occurred in the chemical factories at Mulhouse, Alsace. An operative was blown up into the air and fell into a trough filled about three feet deep with sulphuric acid, the temperature of which was found to be 91 degrees C. ten hours after the accident. The death of the man was only proved by the discovery of his caoutchouc respirator, muzzle, two porcelain buttons and other insoluble articles. Everything else had chemically combined with the acid.—London Engineer.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Legend of the Pansy.

A pretty fable about the pansy is current among French and German children. The flower has five petals and five sepals. In most pansies, especially of the earlier and less highly developed varieties, two of the petals are plain in color and three are gay. The two plain petals have a single sepal, two of the gray petals have a sepal each, and the third, which is the largest of all, has two sepals.

The fable is that the pansy represents a family, consisting of husband and wife and four daughters, two of the latter being stepchildren of the wife. The plain petals are the stepchildren, with only one chair; the two small, gay petals are the daughters, with a chair each, and the large gay petal is the wife, with two chairs.

To find the father one must strip away the petals until the stamens and pistils are bare. They have a fanciful resemblance to an old man, with a flannel wrap about his neck, his shoulders upraised and his feet in a bathtub. The story is probably of French origin, because the French call the pansy the stepmother.—Household Magazine.

Child Language.

Does anybody know of children who today use a language apart in the communication of their thoughts, a language that puzzles linguists, and yet is understood thoroughly by the youngsters? There was a remarkable case some years ago in Albany. Two boys of a well known family—the father was a celebrated politician—whenever they talked together used invariably—that is, in the presence of other members of the family—a language that was not to be discovered among pagan or Christian people. The boys never gave an explanation after they reached the age of 15 or 16. Up to that age they chattered with volubility in this singular tongue. Here is an instance that points toward the sanity of the theory advanced by Charles Godfrey Leland in "Gypsy Sorcery:" "I believe that a company of children left entirely to themselves would form and grow up with a language which in a very few years would be spoken fluently."—Boston Journal.

Why Tea Is Dangerous.

No people in the world drink so much tea or so often as the Japanese, and Europeans in Japan easily fall into the same habit. No word is ever heard of its being injurious or a source of indigestion, but that is because they take care not to extract the tannin from the tea leaves and we take great care to do so. That is why we say persons who live on tea and bread and butter have weak digestions.—British Medical Journal

There is one medicine which every family should be provided with. We refer to Chamberlain's Pain Balm. When it is kept at hand the severe pain of a burn or scald may be promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate attention, before the parts become swollen, and when Chamberlain's Pain Balm is applied it will heal them without matter being formed, and without leaving a scar. A sore throat may be cured in one night. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment and bound on over the seat of pain, will cure lame back or pain in the side or chest in twenty-four hours. It is the most valuable, however, for rheumatism. Persons afflicted with this disease will be delighted with the prompt relief from pain which it affords, and it can be depended upon to effect a complete cure. For sale by all dealers.
